HEMONC Best Practices is an important element in the continuum of physician performance improvement over time. In its 41st year, the course is the well-respected and longest running, covering Hematology and Oncology. With more than 300 practicing clinicians attending each year, it is also the largest combined hematology and medical oncology course in the United States.

This conference will provide a comprehensive review that will be useful for practicing physicians as well as participants who are preparing for certification or recertification exams. In addition, we will expand the attendee's knowledge on our latest scientific updates in Hematology and Oncology best practices. The live program format will be highly interactive, including live audience polling sessions and Q&A sessions with our distinguished faculty and networking opportunities with our sponsor exhibitors throughout the conference days. Attendees will receive CME accreditation after the course completion.

I am Robert S. Siegel, MD, Director, Division of Hematology and Medical Oncology at GW and will be your Course Director for this program. I will be joined by a faculty of leading experts in hematology and oncology. Our expert faculty is comprised of officers of the major professional societies, authors and editors of standard textbooks, and contributors to the development of clinical practice guidelines.

Topics to be covered include: Anemias | Breast Cancer | Clotting and Bleeding Disorders | Gastroenterological Cancer | Genitourinary Cancer | Leukemia | Lymphoma | Multiple Myeloma | Lung Cancer | Melanoma | Mesothelioma | Myelodysplasia | Myeloproliferative Disease | Pharmacology | Platelet Disorders | Sarcomas | Palliative Care | and Cancer in the Elderly

HEMONC BEST PRACTICES COURSE DIRECTOR

Dr. Robert S. Siegel is a Professor of Medicine at The George Washington University School of Medicine & Health Sciences and currently serves as the Associate Center Director for Education and Training for the GW Cancer Center. He is board-certified in Internal Medicine, Medical Oncology, and Hematology.

Dr. Siegel received his BA from Stanford University in 1973, and his MD degree from George Washington University in 1977. His internship, residency, and fellowship all occurred at the Duke University Medical Center in Durham, North Carolina. Dr. Siegel returned to GW as a faculty member in 1982, was promoted to associate professor in 1989 and full professor with tenure in 2000.

Upon returning to GW, he spearheaded the effort to create an oncology unit, which was dedicated in the spring of 1984 and established the Cancer Conference and Tumor Board in the same year. He was instrumental in establishing a certified hospital tumor registry and cancer program in 1985, which has been accredited by the American College of Surgeons every 3 years since then, usually with commendation. He had been chairman of the Cancer Committee from 1987 to 2021.

Dr. Siegel's research initially focused on immune thrombocytopenic purpura. Through his work, the pathophysiology and therapy of this disease is far better understood. In his early years at GW, he also led our research program looking at the natural history of sickle cell disease. Later, he was among the first researchers who documented the inferior survival of African American breast cancer patients, compared to their Caucasian counterparts, because of a biologically more aggressive disease. Subsequent studies around the country have validated these results. Recently, Dr. Siegel has led an effort that appears to show excellent survival and minimal toxicity from a new therapy for advanced Head and Neck Cancer.

Dr. Siegel was the Director of the Oncology Unit from 1984 to 2022. He also led the Cancer Center since from 1993 to 2015. He founded the Katzen Cancer Research Center in 2008 and was its Director and Board Chairman until the fall of 2016. Dr. Siegel served as Director of the Division of Hematology and Oncology from 1997-2015. He was chairman of GW's Institutional Review Board from 1998 through 2003 and was a member of the IRB for 23 years.

He has supervised the GW Medical School's first and second-year Hematology program since 1982, and has been Director of the GW Best Practices Course, the largest program of its kind in the country since 1996. He is the Course Director of the very successful annual Oncology Update and Hematology Update programs for cancer physicians in the Washington, DC region. He also leads a Breast Cancer Consortium, which is composed of Medical Oncologists, Radiation Oncologists and surgeons.

Dr. Siegel has received numerous rewards for excellence in clinical care. He is consistently labeled by Washingtonian Magazine as one of the area's best physicians. In 2017 he received the George Washington University Alumni Achievement Award. He was given the Leonard Tow Humanism Award by the George Washington University in 2005 and the "Commitment to Overcoming Cancer Award" in 2008 by the GW Cancer Institute.

I am a U.S. citizen or other U.S. person (defined below); and 4. The FATCA code(s) entered on this form (if any) indicating that I am exempt from FATCA reporting is correct.
